Labor Difficulties Cast Shadow Over Return To Normal

More Butter and Other Dairy Products in Prospect But Rising American Spirit Jolted by Seizure of Railroad—Taxes on Many Luxuries Due To Drop in Near Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The War Production Board today removed all quotas on the production of passenger cars, leaving the industry free to make as many as capacity permits.

The new cars now beginning to come off assembly lines cannot be equipped with spare tire, WPB ruled.

Control of the fifth, "spare" tire, will be handled by the Office of Price Administration.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—President Truman called in government, business and labor representatives today to discuss a top problem of the reconversion from war to peace—industrial-labor relations.

Preparatory to a labor-management conference planned for the fall, Mr. Truman summoned to his desk:

John W. Snyder, director of war mobilization and reconversion; Eris Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Ira Mosher, head of the National Association of Manufacturers and president Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

As a prognosticator, Rep. Clarence J. Brown has few peers, his friends in this community are agreed.

It seems that one of Brown's papers, the Blanchester Republican, can predict on the end of the war in Africa was missed just 12 days. His date on the surrender of the Italians was off by three or four days.

He predicted the Germans would capitulate by January 1, 1945, but the Germans had other ideas and the Battle of the Bulge developed. When this bulge was defeated, Rep. Brown then said by May 1 and he missed by only eight days.

And while speaking before the Rotary Club, here, a week to the date before the Japs surrendered to the allies, Brown said the surrender might come hourly, certainly within the next ten days and at the most, thirty days would see the end of hostilities.

While touring the west coast with a congressional committee in July, he predicted the war would be over in 60 days, even betting hats and dinners with newspaper men and acquaintances. They scoffed and took the bets.

During his brief stay at home he has received checks and orders for hats and letters acknowledging the debt of dinners.

"I'll have enough hats to last for years," he commented.

A few days ago a woman residing in the rural district stopped Fire Chief George Hall and said: "Why is it that we pay taxes like everyone else, and that you don't give us any fire protection?"

Chief Hall explained that fire protection by the city fire department was for those within the city who pay taxes for support of such facilities, and that in the rural district where she resides there is no provision made by officials for fire protection, either by having a township fire fighting department, or contact with some other taxing district that has such a department.

Chief Hall said that he has been asked the same question many times by persons residing in some taxing district where no provision for fire protection has been made, and has to explain that each district must set up its own machinery for such protection, as well as for other purposes.

WAR TIME REPEAL VOWED BY TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production Board said today war time no longer is justified as a fuel and power-saving measure.

President Truman said yesterday he would recommend to congress that war time be repealed.

Krug sent identical letters to Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), president of the senate, and Speaker Rayburn of the house.

BRITAIN IRKED BY SUDDEN END OF LEND-LEASE

Prime Minister Cautions Restraint in Criticism and Churchill Agrees

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told commons today the sudden end of lend-lease put Britain "in a very serious financial position," and former Prime Minister Churchill said he could not believe that "this was the last word of the United States."

Attlee said the British government had hoped that lend-lease would not have ended without prior consultation.

Churchill, now leader of the opposition, declared he could not believe the United States "would proceed in such a rough and harsh manner as to hamper a faithful ally who held the fort while their own American armaments were prepared."

Attlee cautioned members of the house to exercise "utmost restraint" within and without the chamber in commenting on the situation, and Churchill agreed that a debate now might be detrimental to national interests. Churchill called Attlee's statement "very grave and disquieting."

The prime minister disclosed that Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States during the wartime coalition government, had been invited to return to Washington to negotiate the financial arrangement which will succeed lend-lease.

Attlee said President Truman's directive cancelled all outstanding lend lease contracts and provided that stocks and deliveries procured under it must now be paid either in cash or negotiated credit arrangements.

"We had not anticipated that operations under the lend lease act would continue for any length of time after the defeat of Japan," he said, "but we had hoped the sudden cessation of this great mutual effort would not have been effected without consultation and prior discussions."

The prime minister said Britain's "overseas outgoings" on the eve of Japanese defeat were equivalent to an annual expenditure of about eight billion dollars, including essential food and other non-munitions supplies "which we must now pay for."

OPA GIVES BREAK TO SMALL BUSINESS

Manufacturers, However, Are Offering Protests

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—OPA says its price policy for new peace-time goods is keyed to give small business a running start.

The policy is this: in general hold prices to 1942 levels. But give the little fellow all the "breaks" possible—even if it means slightly higher prices.

The policy is this too: where manufacturers' costs have increased significantly, give them some increase, but require dealers to absorb the boost so the public will not have to pay more than three years ago.

But the national association of manufacturers says the OPA policy of holding prices tight "threatens to hold up reconversion."

In a statement in New York last night, NAM said in effect that conditions have changed since 1942, and that prices of that year would not yield "incentive profits" now.

Thousands of Americans Return from Europe by Plane Long Route Through Natal

By ELTON C. FAY

NATAL, Brazil.—(AP)—More than 32,000 GI's, homeward bound from Europe, have gone through this United States airbase on the eastern hump of South America.

More than 700 men a day climb down from planes, 17 hours out of Casablanca, North Africa. Only a couple of days more and they will be home.

These boys had luck. They beat priority. In general, they are men destined for discharge. Separated from their old organizations and moving as individuals they did not have the priority of travel set originally when redeployment of manpower to the Pacific was urgent. Under normal circumstances they might have been among the last to leave Europe by ocean ships.

Farm Reconversion a Reversal

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Like industry, agriculture faces a difficult reconversion job.

But that job is far different from the one facing industry. The latter must find ways of expanding quickly the output of peace-time goods so greatly in demand.

Agriculture must find ways of dealing with a productive capacity capable of flooding the market. This could have explosive effects upon the nation's economy.

With the aid of ever-developing technological processes, wartime agriculture increased production 35 per cent above pre-war levels. It did this in the face of the smallest manpower in 40 years and a shortage of labor-saving machinery.

Peace is expected to return a million or so war veterans and displaced war plant workers to the land. It also will make avail-

Hero Decorated By President Welcomed Back In Bainbridge

BAINBRIDGE, O., Aug. 24.—

(AP)—This Ross County village today hung out a welcome sign for its hero, Tech. Sgt. Forrest E. Everhart, 23, who yesterday received the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman.

The sergeant returns home today accompanied by his parents,

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Everhart, and his wife, Dorothy, 18, formerly of Texas City, Tex., who witnessed the presentation ceremonies in the red and gold East room of the White House.

Everhart's return to his home town of 1,600 will be greeted by a homecoming celebration which includes a parade and welcoming ceremonies.

Col. Stewart Giffin will present Sgt. Everhart with 300 silver dollars, a gift of Bainbridge business and professional men.

Residents of Greenfield, Hillsboro, Chillicothe, Washington C. H. and other nearby communities are joining Bainbridge homefolks in the celebration.

Everhart served with Co. H, 359th Infantry Regiment, 60th Infantry Division and earned the nation's highest award in combat near Kerling, France, last November 12.

The citation showed Everhart was not looting last November 12 near Kerling, France.

His group, a platoon of Co. H, 359th Infantry Regiment, 60th Infantry Division, "bore the brunt of a desperate enemy counter-attack" before dawn that day against the Moselle river bridgehead, the citation said.

Everhart ran 400 yards through a wood churned by artillery and mortar concentrations to strengthen a threatened position, his citation said, adding:

"With one remaining gunner, he directed furious fire into advancing hordes until they swarmed close to the position. He left the gun, boldly charged at attackers and after a 15-minute exchange of hand grenades, formed them to withdraw, leaving 30 dead behind."

5-Point Plan Offered For Full Employment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Five-point supplement to the so-called "full employment" bill, including a budget-balancing tax program, was proposed to Congress today by Beardsley Ruml, original advocate of pay-as-you-go tax legislation.

Ruml and Tom Clark, attorney general, voiced approval of the job bill's objectives, as witnesses before the senate banking and currency committee.

The pay-as-you-go proponent, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, laid before the senators these proposals for legislation to strengthen the full employment objectives:

1. Reform of social security financing that "will take the deflation out of social security."

2. "We should have a regular federal policy and program in public works and conservation"

HOME SWEET HOME!

Alcoholic Wife Exposed in Divorce Testimony

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Jacqueline Betty Bridges, 20, a witness in the divorce trial of her father, Labor Leader Harry Bridges, yesterday testified that Mrs. Bridges was "habitually drunk, violent and profane," and often invited strange men into their home.

Miss Bridges told the court that her mother had been an alcoholic "almost ever since I can remember," and on several occasions had brought home taxi drivers and bartenders as drinking companions.

"Sometimes she would appear naked before them and let them paw her," the young woman said.

NEW STAMPS GOOD AFTER THIS MONTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—These red stamps will become good Saturday, Sept. 1 for meats and fats: L1, M1, N1, P1, and Q1. They are being liquidated for the usual period of four months—Sept. 1 through Dec. 31. Each stamp is worth 10 points, making a total of 50.

Invalid after Aug. 31 will be stamps Q2, R2, S2, T2, and U2.

What the OPA didn't tell—and won't until next week—is how much meat red stamps will buy in September. All indications, however, point to substantial reductions in point values.

ECONOMIC PROGRAM URGED BY DE GAULLE

Agreement Would Help Reconstruction

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—General Charles De Gaulle proposed today the United States draw up a long-range economic program with France to promote permanent reconstruction of that war ravaged country.

The president of the French provisional government said America is furnishing "appreciable help and already a vast total has been reached" with the prospect of 1,000,000 tons monthly of supplies flowing out of this country to France.

But all this, De Gaulle told a news conference, is stuff needed immediately such as food, material for current industrial operations and some coal tonnage to tide over the coming winter.

HOARDERS OF SOAP ROOT OF SHORTAGE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Take it from the country's largest soap manufacturer, there's enough soap to go around, and more in prospect, but hoarding makes equal distribution impossible.

"We're making as much soap per capita in the United States as we did 10 years ago," said W. G. Werner, public relations director of the Procter & Gamble Company. "There's enough for everyone if people would stop hoarding."

More soap will be available for the public soon because the army has cancelled all soap orders after October 1, Werner declared, and added: "We expect the sources of fat and oils taken by the Japs to be open to us after the first of the year."

CHARTER IS SIGNED BY GEN. CHIANG

CHUNGKING, Aug. 24.—(AP)—In a brief ceremony today, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, using an ordinary Chinese brush, signed the document attesting China's ratification of the United Nations charter.

The great jade seal of the republic previously had been affixed to the document which Chiang signed in the presence of a few high officers of state and an assembly of Chinese and foreign newsmen.

THROW AWAY RECORDS OF GASOLINE RATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Dealers, distributors and suppliers of gasoline and fuel oil need not retain rationing records unless the same records are required by some other regulation, the OPA said today.

Under OPA price regulation, however, dealers, suppliers and distributors are required to keep customary bookkeeping records, including inventories.

CEASE FIGHTING ORDER SENT OUT AHEAD OF TIME

Typhoon Threatens To Make American Landing in Tokyo Area Difficult

By LEONARD MILLIMAN

(By the Associated Press) Japan complained to General MacArthur today that Russia intended to land airborne occupation troops in the northernmost home island of Hokkaido as a typhoon threatened to disrupt the supreme commander's own scheduled arrival near Tokyo Tuesday.

Simultaneously units of Japan's powerful home army began disarming under the emperor's command to cease hostilities at once without waiting for the articles of surrender which will be signed aboard the battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay August 31.

The message to MacArthur on the purported Russian move said the announcement had come from Moscow—by what route it did not say.

The report from imperial headquarters was worded as if the Russians were acting without MacArthur's knowledge, adding: "It is earnestly hoped that the armed forces of the Allied powers will enter Japan according to the plan, as has been notified by the headquarters of the supreme commander of the Allied powers."

Prisons Revealed The Japanese also began transmitting the names, locations and number of personnel in the prisoner of war camps. One heard by the Associated Press Monitor listed 10 camps in Nagoya area with 2,812 prisoners. The largest had 606 men.

Cessation of all hostilities in Manchuria, Sakhalin and "other areas where Japanese forces are in direct contact" with Allied armies has been ordered by Emperor Hirohito, MacArthur's headquarters were informed by Tokyo radio.

Directions permitting the opening of direct telephone and telegraph circuits between MacArthur's headquarters in the Tokyo area and Japanese imperial headquarters were issued to the Japanese by the supreme Allied commander. He ordered wire circuits turned over to him that will permit direct operation of international radio, cable, telephone and broadcasting facilities of the Japanese government and its affiliated agencies.

The Red flag is flying today over all of Manchuria, Sakhalin, Korea and two of the Kurile Islands, marking an end of Russia's two-week war with Japan.

Premier Stalin formally proclaimed complete victory over the Japanese last night. The Soviet capital shook with a salute of 24 salvos of 324 guns.

Occupation Extension

Simultaneously, the Japanese reported Allied occupation would be extended to southern Japan Sept. 1, the day after signing of surrender documents, and reported "fair progress" in ending hostilities in Asia although some Allied forces were making "unwarranted attacks."

Rains swept in by a typhoon disrupted communications and transportation in the Tokyo area, and left the Atsugi airfield sodden with mud, Tokyo said. Only medium transports can land on the runways of the airfield as the enemy command warned MacArthur, who has 350 heavy transports lined up for the job.

A flood of messages to MacArthur also reported communications with China were interrupted; Emperor Hirohito has ordered cessation of hostilities along all (Please Turn to Page Two)

DEFERMENT REQUESTS MUST BE FILED SOON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Employers who want renewal of draft deferments for their workers must file new requests before September 15.

This was announced last night by Selective Service in connection with the dropping, September 15, of a plan under which 17 government agencies were authorized to certify deferments for key workers.

Since most of the certifications were for men over 26, no longer being drafted, abolition of the plan affects a relatively small number of registrants.

Veterans Wanting Jobs Reassured By President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Veterans needn't worry that a technicality may leave them without any legal right to their former jobs.

That's a promise, and it comes from President Truman.

The chief executive told a news conference yesterday that he intends to see that veterans who want and are entitled to their old jobs get them back. If additional legislation is needed, Mr. Truman said, he will recommend specific changes to congress.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, said in Boston Wednesday night due to an omission veterans will not be legally entitled to their old jobs when congress or the president (Please Turn to Page Two)

WARNING ISSUED TO SPEEDERS BY JUDGE R. H. SITES

Leniency To End Because of Danger to Others Now That Rationing Over

An emphatic public warning to motor car speed fiends was issued Thursday by Police Judge Robert H. Sites.

He declares that with the end of the war and the lifting of gasoline rationing there seems to be a feeling on the part of too many drivers that all bans are "off" and they are free to ride in any way they please.

"Not so," says Judge Sites. He calls attention to the fact that too many innocent drivers and pedestrians are endangered by reckless drivers who appear to have the false notion that their personal liberty is being questioned if their attention is called to the fact that they are driving faster than legal limits, or that their method of driving must be restricted within the bounds of safety.

Sheriff Orland Hays has been very active in bringing in many speedsters and in some cases, drunken drivers, and up to this time Judge Sites says he has been reasonably lenient but there is a point at which any judicial mercy or mildness must cease for the benefit of the general public.

Sites points to his public notice of caution that henceforth some of those who appear before him for traffic and speed violations are likely to feel the mailed fist of a magistrate's wrath by learning that a fine of $500, six months imprisonment and the taking away of driving permits for a year are quite within the legal limits of any sentence he may impose.

"Better watch the heavy foot pressure on that accelerator" the judge warns and he acts like he means it.

REVIVAL MEETING

A series of revival meetings has been arranged for the Second Pilgrim Holiness Church on Paint Street, with Rev. George Scott, known as the coal miner evangelist in the pulpit.

The first meeting is scheduled for August 29. The series is to continue for at least two weeks.

SOUTH AMERICAN WAY IS QUICKEST WAY HOME EVEN IF IT IS LONGEST

(Continued From Page One) Atlantic to Natal and up through the Caribbean to the United States. But troop ships average ten or 12 days on the North Atlantic run. Soldiers making the trip over the southern legs of the green project reach the United States in about three days.

Paranirum Field and its huge military encampment is the transfer point for the soldier-traveler. He lands here at the halfway mark home in a C-54, four engine transport; perhaps a little weary of hearing the roar of airplane engines for 17 hours and a little more fed up with K rations—but with the United States only two days away. The plane taxis up to the line, American army representatives climb aboard, including medics who give a spot health check. Last any malarial bugs have come along, insecticide spray fills the ship.

The GI probably has had a sleep or two on the way over, a nap in his bucket seat or rolled up in a blanket on the floor. Many of the men never had flown before. They are tired.

Occasionally they are scared. They tell themselves the worst of their trip is past, the over-water jump (not realizing that hundreds of miles of flying over dense jungle is ahead). There have been extreme cases where airplane shy soldiers have balked at more.

VETERANS WANTING JOBS REASSURED BY PRESIDENT AGAINST LEGAL SLIPS

Originally a section of the selective service law carried a guarantee that a service man who had a job could go back to it, if he applied for it within 90 days. It also carried a provision that if the other parts of the selective service law were dropped, the job guarantees would continue.

The present law has the same guarantee, unchanged. But it does not contain the provision that these job rights go on no matter what happens to the rest of the act.

WATER VOLUME IS MYSTERY AT DISPOSAL PLANT

Investigation Provides Only Basis for Theories But Nothing Definite

The city authorities have been puzzled for some time to account for the large amount of water passing through the sewage disposal plant. During wet periods, this is to be expected because the stormsewers of Washington C. H. are connected with the sanitary sewer, therefore heavy rains would naturally flood the disposal plant. However, even during dry seasons a huge volume of water passes through the disposal plant, keeping two of the three pumps busy most of the time. This increases the cost of operating the plant.

City Manager W. L. Stambaugh and O. D. Farquhar, of the Ohio Water Service Co. held a brief conference Friday morning in an effort to establish some theory that would account for the situation. In the opinion of Farquhar, there is no major leak in the distributing system of the water company, for the daily pumpage would show it although probably a million gallons of water each month are lost through small leaks in many service lines between the mains and the meters, he said.

A major leak in a main could effect the sewer only in case it occurred near a break in the sewer wall.

The conclusion was that this large volume of water might be accounted for by the fact that several concerns, such as canning factories, creamery and dairies of necessity use a huge daily volume of water, all of which is discharged into the sewer.

A sewer system installed by modern engineers is equipped with a manhole for each change of direction or change of grade which makes it easy to locate and relieve any defect arising. Stambaugh pointed out that many of the older sewer lines in Washington C. H. have no manholes, so that the only remedy in case of difficulty is to dig down to the trouble. The policy is being adopted now of installing a manhole wherever such trouble occurs, which is helping in the betterment of the situation, he added.

making. As it now stands, the announcement of the end of hostilities would end the entire act, including job guarantees.

REDS TO LAND IN JAPAN, JAPS SAY AS ORDER TO CEASE FIGHT SENT OUT

recent battlelines; peace is being restored in most sectors but the situation is "steadily deteriorating" in Nanking, Shanghai and Hangchow areas of China. Tokyo radio added that ten men in a peace mission were "massacred" on Sakhalin Island north of Japan.

Landings on Kyushu Island forming the southern tip of Japan will start Sept. 1, an imperial command said, when airborne troops will take over Kanoya Airfield. Stronger forces of "considerable size" will follow the next day. Landing by air at Kanoya and by sea and air at Takasu, to the west.

Japs Moving Out

While the Japanese were moving their troops out of preliminary occupation areas, grounding their aircraft and disarming their ships, they protested to General MacArthur that Chinese and Russian forces were still fighting the war.

The imperial command said a submarine, presumably Russian, sank four ships around Hokkaido, northernmost island of Japan. The purported attacks were Wednesday. On one vessel 553 casualties were reported.

Greater concern was expressed over the situation on the mainland where Tokyo said "disarmed Japanese forces and civilians are being made victims of illegal firing, looting, acts of violence, rape and other outrages."

The imperial command asked MacArthur for permission for Nipponese troops to retain their arms in Manchuria, northern Korea and inner Mongolia until Japanese residents have been moved out.

Hopeful Signs in China

While Tokyo said the situation "is certain to get out of control," two hopeful signs appeared in the confused China picture. Communist Leader Mao Tse Tung reportedly agreed, "for the sake of unity" to send representatives to discuss peaceful settlement of China's internal problems which threatened to embroil the nation in a renewal of civil war. Chiang's National Defense Council and Central Executive Committee of the Kuomintang approved a China-Soviet pact. Terms were not disclosed.

The Japanese commander in Singapore was still adamant about surrendering, but a meeting was scheduled in Rangoon for Sunday to arrange for Nipponese forces in the southern regions to lay down their arms.

Naval fliers reported Japanese on the by-passed island fortress of Truk waved greetings at them instead of firing anti-aircraft guns. They took it as a sign of willingness to surrender.

The navy announced a Japanese torpedo plane tore a hole in the side of the 33,000 ton battleship Pennsylvania in a night attack August 12. Twenty Americans were killed or missing. The Japanese escaped.

Tokyo said Japanese were still dying in Atom-blasted Hiroshima from radioactivity. The report asserted 30,000 died in the first two weeks after the first atom bomb burst, bringing the death toll to 60,000.

STATION WAGON CRASHES FENCE IN FREAK MISHAP

Driverless Vehicle Stops Six Feet from Home of Lloyd Clarks

A driverless station wagon careened through two fences and snapped off a pole before coming to a stop six feet from Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clark's dining room window at their home on Chillicothe Pike around 5:30 P. M. Thursday, Sheriff Orland Hays reported today.

The station wagon, a Plymouth, was being towed by a Chrysler four door sedan, around a curve near the Clark home, it was reported. The two vehicles were fastened together at the bumpers and, as they rounded the curve, the station wagon broke loose and plummeted through the fences. The fences plus the pole slowed the wagon down before it crashed into the house.

The Chrysler, a four door sedan, was in thrown into a ditch and broke three fence posts before it was halted against a hickory tree, Hays reported.

Hays said he estimated the damage at from $75 to $100. The Pleasant, W. Va., it was said. No cars were on their way to Point one was injured.

Woman 101 Years Old Dies In Native Sabina

Mrs. Elmira McCartney, who celebrated her 101st birthday last March 3, is dead. She died Thursday evening in Sabina, the town in which she had lived during her more than a century of life.

Mrs. McCartney was familiar to almost everyone as "Aunt Muelle." She lived with her only daughter, Mrs. Charles Webb, in Sabina. She was a faithful member of the Sabina Methodist Church and was prominent in all church activities as long as her health permitted. She was born only a short distance from Sabina.

Surviving besides her daughter are one granddaughter, two grandsons and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Webb residence Sunday at 2:30 P. M. Rev. J. C. Williams, pastor of the Methodist Church, will be in charge. Burial will be in the Sabina Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Webb residence after 1 P. M. Saturday.

In the first nine months of 1944 38 per cent of the total shipments of tooth brushes from factories went to military, post exchanges, ships' stores, Red Cross, and for export.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE—

China's incipient civil war raises the harsh question of whether our conflict-weary world finally is managing to clamber out of the flying-pan only to tumble into the fire.

This long-standing and bloody quarrel between the Chinese communists and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Kuomintang government has suddenly flamed up again into white heat to become one of the great threats to world peace.

Yesterday from Chungking came the grim report that the communists in North and Central China has "gathered their strength for an all-out offensive." We get some easement today in the statement from official communist sources in Chungking that communist leader Mao Tse-Tung has accepted Chiang Kai-Shek's invitation to send a representative to the capital to discuss a peaceful settlement of the trouble. General Chou En-Lai, a man of great capabilities whom I met in Chungking in 1943, has been selected as the Red representative.

Fractious war in that huge nation of some 500,000,000—close to a quarter of the globe's population—would present appalling dangers. So it is encouraging to read Hanson W. Baldwin's Washington dispatch to the New York Times, stating that Britain, Russia and the United States will undertake joint political action to avert this catastrophe. From today's development one wonders if they haven't already made representations.

Certainly such intervention by the Big Three would be justified in the interests of world peace, especially since the San Francisco security organization isn't yet functioning. The general moral effect of such a move by this mighty trio would be good.

Of course this strife between the Chungking government and the communists, who demand representation in a coalition government, isn't new. It really began some nineteen years ago, and the genesis of it was this:

Back in 1923 the great revolutionary leader, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, appealed to Russia for help in ousting the Chinese war-lords who had got control of his nationalist government. This aid was granted and the war-lords were driven out. Sun Yat Sen died in 1925 and a year later the nationalist government in its present form was established with Chiang Kai-Shek in power. General Chiang dismissed the Russian advisers and tried to break up the communism which had been established in Northern and Central China.

This warfare has continued ever since and the communists have centered much of their strength in Szechwan province in the north. One of the sensational episodes of this long struggle came in 1936 when Chiang Kai-Shek went to Shensi to negotiate with the communists for their admission. His famous wife rushed to his side, determined to "live and die" with him, and she was generally credited with persuading the captors to free Chiang.

When the Japanese attacked China a truce was made between the Chinese communists and Chungking. They buried the hatchet so as to present a common front to the invaders. The Reds then had several powerful armies in the field, and they recently claimed that their forces totaled over a million.

Despite the truce there were numerous sanguinary clashes between the Red and the government troops. Furthermore the two factions didn't present a unified and efficient fighting force. The other Allies tried to bring them together, but without success.

Now, with the collapse of Japan, the pent-up political passions of China are trying again to break their bonds.

ATOMIC BOMB EXPLOSION TO BE SHOWN AT FAYETTE

Motion pictures of an atomic bomb explosion, the like of which demolished two cities in Japan and were a determining factor in the sudden end of the war in the Pacific, are to be shown on the screen of the Fayette Theater here next Monday and Tuesday as the climactic feature of a Movietone News reel of current events.

Filmed from a distance of six miles, the test blast recorded by the camera shows the cataclysmic forces of the devastating new weapon. The pictures show an immense ball of fire soaring 40,000 feet in the air and incandescent clouds being hurled into the stratosphere.

The spectacular picture record is described by Ed Thorgeresen.

MOOSE LODGE PREPARING FOR RETURNING MEN

48 Members of Chapter Here Are Servicemen; One Was Killed

The Moose Lodge here will be all ready for its returning servicemen when the improvements which now are being made in the club headquarters are finished.

Pfc. Pershing Mann, who met death in Belgium December 28, 1944, was the only serviceman member of the lodge to be killed. Preparations also are underway for the regular lodge presentation of a gold star to the widow and parents of Pfc. Mann.

Now that the war is over and peace has been established, 10,000,000 young Americans have been places and done things. Men who ordinarily would not have even far from farm, small town or even cities will have been halfway around the world.

With 75,000 Moose members in the service, every lodge is setting its house in order for the return to civilian life of this mighty army.

First will be the welcome home. Receptions without number already have been planned. Plans are being made to make the physical aspects of each Moose home particularly attractive to the veterans. During the readjustment period when men are returning to civilian life, the recreational facilities of each Moose lodge or home will be planned to offer greater appeal to the former serviceman. The Moose home will be his club to each returning member, where he may spend some of his leisure time he is likely to encounter before he gets back into the routine of civilian life.

Among other services, the Moose order is considering for the former serviceman is assistance in getting employment and providing adequate medical care for himself or his family.

ONLY ONE WEEK LEFT FOR CANNING SUGAR

Many More Applications Than Last Year

Housewives have only next week to get their applications to the Ration Board if they expect to get any sugar for canning this year.

It was said at the board's office that all applications had been "cleaned up"—that is they had been processed and the certificates returned to the applicants. Applications received between now and the end of this month will get prompt attention and, because there are fewer to handle, the delay is expected to be the shortest of any time since canning sugar was rationed.

There has been a big increase in applications for canning sugar this year, it was said at the board. The explanation inferred that the tightening of supplies and rations of normal rations was responsible, although direct charges of chiseling were avoided.

The current ration of five pounds of sugar every four months will be continued for the remainder of the year.

Sugar stamp 38 in ration book 4, good for five pounds, will be validated September 1 and remain good through December 31. The current stamp, 36, will not be good after August 31.

Stamp 37 is not being validated, OPA said, because many persons by mistake last year mailed 37 to local boards to obtain special canning allowances.

A senate subcommittee held out the hope today of cutting exports as a means of alleviating the shortage.

TRIPLE MURDER STORY IS TOLD BY MAY DUFFEE

Book of Poetry and Prose Records County's Most Sensational Crime

Miss May M. Duffee's "Thou Shalt Not Covet," the story in poetry and prose of the McCoy triple murder, is off the press now.

It is a volume which has been more than a year in the making, for Miss Duffee began writing some of the poems which appear in the book before Collett was even suspected as the killer.

Writing a book about the murders of Thanksgiving eve of 1943 did not occur to Miss Duffee until Ernest West of Mansfield, who is associated with the Midland Rare Book Company, suggested to her that she write a book. West has helped place Miss Duffee's other volumes of poetry.

And so the detailed recording of the progress of the entire case from the murder itself through the trial, the appeals for clemency made for Collett and finally, his execution, now is in book form.

Altogether there are 53 chapters in the book, each one dealing with a different phase of the case. Each chapter consists of a poem and of prose notes on the same subject. Miss Duffee put in endless hours of research over newspaper clippings to get the material for the notes and the result of her diligence shows, for the names of practically everyone connected with the case plus other details are included.

"I enjoyed writing it," Miss Duffee said.

Hospital Project Endorsed

One of the fine and strong endorsements given to the proposed Fayette County Memorial Hospital project, to be voted upon at the coming November 6 general election, appeared in the weekly publication put out by the Washington C. H. Lions Club.

This club paper, issued every two weeks is called "The Mane Tail" and is full of newsy comments most of which are of importance to Lions Club members. Frequently however items of special interest to the whole community appear and the favorable attitude toward the county hospital project is reflected in the little paper's cordial endorsement as follows:

"Washington C. H. has had several projects during the past few years but the most important, and the one that is needed the worst, has been neglected. If there ever was an improvement for Fayette County that would prove to be more of a blessing than anything else we could have, it is a hospital. No doubt, each and everyone of us has seen the time when a hospital here would have been a godsend whether it was needed for someone who was close to us or someone we just knew as a friend. If the time comes, and we hope it will be soon, when we are asked to help on this drive to get a hospital here we owe it to ourselves and our community to get behind it 100 percent."

Gas Ain't Rubber

A driver was rolling along the great Queen Elizabeth Way, direct route from Toronto to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, on the first Saturday afternoon after gas rationing had been lifted on both sides of the border, when she noticed a little knot of people around a car beside the pavement. They were changing a tire. Suddenly realizing this was not the first such activity she had seen that day, she began to keep count.

In the next forty miles, she passed eight tire-changing crews on her own side of the highway. Between the Falls and Buffalo, where speeds are severely limited, there were none. But as soon as she reached the Buffalo limits, outward bound, they appeared again. There would be one about every five miles within the first thirty miles on either side of a large city, then none until she was within that distance of the next.

Apparently drivers, intoxicated by the rallying call "fill 'er up," had simply started out in any direction from a city, in happy disregard of the state of their rubber. And the minute they got up to pre-war speed, "bang" went some poor, worn-out tire, of which too much had been required. It was a sobering sight.

Spraying for Polio

Polio myelitis, that epidemic scourge popularly known as "Infantile Paralysis," though many of its victims are adult, is on the rampage once more. Every fall its presence is felt across the continent. This year two of the localities hardest hit so far have been a section of southern Ontario, and Rockford, Ill. Rockford health officials, confronted with a total of 128 cases of which 16 have been fatal, are engaged in an experiment of considerable importance.

They obtained a large supply of the new insecticide, DDT, and the Air Technical Service Command at Dayton, O., put at their service a B-25 bomber originally equipped for mosquito control in Panama. The plane, carrying a 550-gallon tank in its bomb bay, flies 150 feet above the ground at 200 miles an hour, and can spray a 150-foot strip on each flight.

Polio experts, including Dr. John R. Paul of Yale University, who is supervising the work, are watching the results with intense interest. For if, as they hope, polio can be controlled by spraying of areas where the infection is shown to be present, the world may soon find freedom from one of its most terrible diseases.

Teeth and Jaw Infections Treated With Sulfonamides

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
INFECTIONS of the teeth are dangerous from many standpoints. One source of danger is the extension of the infection from the teeth into the jaw, and then into the tissues of the neck. These infections may be extremely serious. According to Doctor Arthur M. Alden of St. Louis, Missouri, it appears that in recent years the death rate from such infections has been greatly reduced because operations are performed early and because such drugs as the sulfonamides and penicillin are available for treating these conditions, together with operation.

As a result of the extension of infection from a tooth into the neck, an abscess usually forms. This abscess locates in certain definite parts of the neck tissue, such as under the angle of the jaw or under the chin. According to Doctor Alden, the germs which most often are responsible for these infections are those which are thought to produce trench mouth, that is, the Spirochete of Vincent and the bacillus Fusiformis.

Germs Present

However, very frequent streptococci and staphylococci germs are also present. Hence, in treating these infections, he suggests the giving of some arsenic-containing preparation to combat the spirochete and bacilli, together with one of the sulfonamides to help overcome the streptococci or staphylococci infection. Some of the patients he treated were given penicillin with good results.

A condition known as trismus is frequently a complication of these neck infections. Trismus is a spasm which keeps the affected person from opening his mouth. It is commonly known as lockjaw. Another complication which may develop is osteomyelitis of the jawbone.

Edema in Larynx

Still a third complication is edema, or a collection of fluid in the tissues of the larynx or voice box. When such edema is present it progresses rapidly, and often a tracheotomy must be performed. This means an opening is made from the outside into the windpipe so that the patient will be able to breathe.

The treatment of the neck infection consists of operation to drain the abscess. The physician will decide just when the operation should be performed.

VETERANS' GUIDE

BY MAJOR THOMAS M. NIAL

WASHINGTON — I was just talking with a nineteen year old Joe who's wrapped up in a Navy V 12 program.

He's going to be a doctor. He always wanted to be one. When he graduated from high school, he went directly into the Navy. He's been sweating out an accelerated course and managed to hold on while others wilted. The need for doctors in the Navy has slowed to a walk, so it's hard for a young fellow to survive the cuts.

But know what he's worrying about? He wants the war to end, but he wonders how he'll be able to complete his medical education afterwards. That's what he said—he said that.

So I asked him, "Have you heard about the G. I. Bill and its education provisions?"

"Oh, sure. I've heard about it," he shrugged, "but it won't help me."

"Well, why not?" I wanted to know. When you're discharged you'll be a veteran and the G. I. Bill is for veterans."

"Sure—but I hear a veteran can't count the time he spends in a Navy College Training Program as time in the service. That is," he added, "as time towards giving him credit for education under the G. I. Bill."

Well, I told him I thought someone had passed him some scuttlebutt. I pulled the law on him and showed him the wording of Part VIII of Title II of the G. I. Bill.

There were two questions he wanted to get clear. What about the service man who takes an N. C. T. P. course, but is discharged before he finishes it because the war ends—can he count the time as credit for education under the G. I. Bill?

Second—if a service man fails to complete an N. C. T. P. course for any reason and is assigned to some other Navy duty, can he count the time he spent in the N. C. T. P. course as time in service—for education credit under the G. I. Bill?

I say "Yes" to both questions. Let's look at the wording of the law. We'll ignore (to get to the point) such other necessary qualifications as "must have served on or after September 16, 1940" and "discharge under conditions other than dishonorable" and age and so on.

The law says anyone who "shall have served ninety days or more." Then comes this: "exclusive of any period he was assigned for a course of education or training under the army specialized training program or the Navy college training program." That's the part which probably created the misinformation my friend had absorbed.

But the law goes right on to say: "which course was a continuation of his civilian course and was pursued to completion."

That's all there is to it. It means that any service man who spent any time in an A. S. T. P. or N. C. T. P. set-up can count that time as service (when he later wants to qualify for education or training under the G. I. Bill) provided he did not complete the Army or Navy course for any reason.

Even if he completed the A. S. T. P. or N. C. T. P. course, he can count the time—unless the course was a continuation of a course he was taking before he went into the service.

RETURN OF NYLONS IS TO START SOON

Eleven Pairs a Year for Women Promised

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 24.—E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company, swinging into large scale peacetime production, promises nylon-starved American women 11 pairs a year.

It won't be long, Dupont said, until we have what amounts to a nylon world. Through years of experience in putting the strong yarn to military uses, the textile industry has learned many new ways of handling the yarn.

Sheer nettings, which proved an invaluable aid against mosquitoes in the tropics soon will appear in window curtains.

Curtains, dresses, veils and even underwear made of nylon will hold their shape and smoothness through countless launderings, the company added.

WARTIME HOUSE TO BE MARKETED

By LARRY SMITH
AKRON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Some day soon you'll be able to purchase a home in the morning and have it delivered ready for occupancy before nightfall.

That's the promise of Wingfoot Homes, Inc., subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, which contemplates mass production of preassembled homes.

Production models of the home, designed for low-income families, are coming off the assembly line of a pilot plant at Litchfield Park, Ariz.

It has been sold under wartime housing regulations in Arizona and New Mexico, and an installment financing plan patterned somewhat after that used in purchase of an automobile soon will be available to the public.

The home will be sold as a package unit when it becomes available for the general market. It will be mobile if the owner should desire to move it later to another location. Everything in the way of furnishings will be included excepting such items as kitchenware, bed clothing and curtains.

When ready for shipment the house is eight feet wide and 26 feet long.

Delivered at a site, the bedroom wings are extended to form bedroom bays which make the width over 15 feet at the expanded end. It is insulated for hot and cold climates.

The Goodyear home has three rooms and a bath, is fully wired for electricity and is equipped with gas. Other heating arrangements are possible where gas is not available.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

(Fourth of Six Articles)

WASHINGTON — When it came to getting the highly skilled craftsmen for the Manhattan (atomic bomb) project, the War Manpower Commission had to stoop to virtual coercion, kidnapping and labor piracy — the very things it was fighting so hard to keep out of war industry.

It was legalized, of course — by an overall executive order from President Roosevelt that gave atomic bomb production the highest labor priorities in the land. That didn't always make it easy.

"Give me an order for 10,000 unskilled laborers any day rather than an order for one man of the highest skills," said one WMC official.

In the first place, the top skilled men were those who might get a peep into Uncle Sam's topmost-drawer war secret. Not only did they have to be citizens, but their parents and grandparents had to be citizens. If they had been abroad any time in recent years before the war they were automatically barred. Being ace men in their professions, they were normally high-salaried, steady, conservative and generally disinclined to fall for offers to go to work in the blind alley which the production of some fantastic weapon of tomorrow might be.

Once convinced and cleared by the FBI, they had to be yanked from under the watchful eyes of their employers without ever telling the latter what the Army was making that was more important than their vital parts for planes, ships, guns and bombs.

This situation came to a climax once when an irate Navy captain in charge of ship repairs at the Mare Island Navy Yard in San Francisco Bay came storming into Washington. He wanted to know just what the hell was going on. WMC, he roared, had pirated 15 of his best electricians.

Later in the day, hoarse but chastened, he called the WMC official on whom he had visited most of his wrath. He was talking from the office of one of the brassiest Navy hats in Washington. He apologized. If he had something that took priority over putting ships back into the battle of the Pacific, it must be the biggest thing in military history, he said.

The same thing happened at the Rock Island (Ill.) arsenal. The commanding officer had to be told off through orders from General Marshall himself before he would quit fighting the pirating of some of his best machinists.

On the whole, private war industry employers were more tractable and cooperative, one WMC official said, and gave up—even if tearfully—their best tool makers, designers, millwrights, pipefitters etc. without a struggle, once informed there was something bigger in the making than anything they were producing.

Nevertheless, WMC officials breathed a big sigh of relief when they, along with the rest of the world, were informed that the "Manhattan project" produced the atomic bomb and that these volcanoes on a parachute were the most devastating success in the whole history of wars.

If they had fudged a little on the rule against taking more than 10 percent of the skilled workers in factories that had more than 10 of such; if they practically shanghaied a few of the nation's finest shoproom artists, at last they were justified.

COLOR IS FIRST IN NEW CLOTHES FOR VETERANS

Increased Sale of Overalls
Evidence That Many
Going Back to Farm

As a welcome relief after years of wearing khaki and navy blue, returning servicemen are buying plaid sports coats and shirts, salesmen in department stores of Washington C. H. agreed here today. Only a few have purchased suits and this was explained by the fact that just now there is neither the selection of color nor material and that most are waiting until fall lines are complete before selecting suits and topcoats.

Younger veterans seem to want tweed and plaid suits while the older ones stick by the more conservative shades of blue and brown, one salesman said who had waited on several men who came in to purchase complete outfits.

Evidence that many sailors and soldiers are working around the farm while home on leaves, if not discharged, was the increased amount of work clothes being sold by one retailer. However, the discharged veteran isn't interested in purchasing khaki work pants, they all said. He prefers regular overalls to khaki.

Like Flashy Ties

Flashy ties are being bought by servicemen who will buy the loudest tie that every other man had passed by, one haberdasher commented. Navy kerchiefs and khaki ties are thus being put in the background. Loud socks come in for their share of attention on the part of the servicemen who prefer these to the plain colored ones worn so long by him. He is seeming to pay more attention to the selection and color harmony of his shirts and ties, also.

Men who were stationed in, or passed through, California ask for the "slack-jack" suits which originated out here. They consist of a plain colored pair of trousers and a plaid jacket with plain sleeves and collar. A fashion long ago taken up by the young boys of the community, they are being bought in increasing numbers by veterans who say they are very comfortable. Being comfortable is one of the first considerations in purchasing anything, one man said.

Each salesman said he had found a returned veteran is one of the most agreeable and least difficult to please of all his customers.

Many expressed surprise that there were shortages in variety in selecting their clothes, as well as a scarcity of underwear and white shirts, such has been experienced here the past few months.

Postscript: One store has woolen underwear that will feel mighty good this winter. The salesman said it has been ordered for last winter but it has arrived only the middle of this summer.

NO DEFINITE PLANS FOR V-J DAY HERE

Doubt Expressed That Another
Celebration Will Be Held

Among the many current rumors is one to the effect that there is soon to be proclaimed an official V-J Day. Some military authorities have even sent out mimeographed statements earmarked "to be released on official V-J Day."

So far, no definite and official information seems to be available. James Riffe, Jr., executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and City Manager W. L. Stambaugh have received no official information.

According to general rumor, President Truman will make some proclamation probably in the near future designating a certain date as the official day to be observed.

Inasmuch as there already have been two days of closed business houses and general holiday celebration, it seems doubtful if any elaborate program will be planned at this time, even if and when official announcement is made.

The picture is due Sunday at the State Theatre, with a supporting cast of Andy Devine, Thomas Gomez, Collette Lyons, Samuel S. Hinds and Fuzzy Knight.

Six Guests Are Included at Luncheon - Bridge

Mrs. Ira Barchet included six guests with members of her bridge club when they assembled at her home for luncheon-bridge, on Thursday afternoon at 1 P. M. They were Mrs. Victor E. Lunsford, of New Orleans, La., Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. Alfred Hagler, Mrs. M. Grove Davis, Miss Helen Simons and Mrs. Lou Baer.

Seated at one large table and one smaller table, the guests were served a delicious assortment of appropriate luncheon viands. Centering the larger table was a watergarden composed of an assortment of petunias in the orchid tones, surrounded by white swans in keeping with the white pottery figurines used in the watergarden placement. The smaller table decorations were duplicated by the hostess who used a crystal basket to enhance the pretty setting for the luncheon. A mass of other colorful flowers were seen at vantage points throughout the home, from the gardens of the hostess, and also Mrs. Max Thomas and Mrs. Lou Baer.

Capably assisting Mrs. Barchet in serving yesterday was Mrs. Richard Willis and Mrs. Max Thomas.

At the close of an afternoon of bridge, prizes were presented to Mrs. Harford Hankins, Mrs. Max Thomas and Mrs. Richard Willis.

Here Are Few Reminders On Post-war Shopping

Fayette County women will be interested to know that ration points may not be a part of their lives for very much longer. Before long you will have to reconvert your marketing technique to peacetime requirements, and it isn't too soon to give you a few reminders of the facts of prewar life.

Back before the war, money was a basic consideration for shopping. Nobody had ever heard of the theory that if the butcher has the beef and you have the points, then the price doesn't matter.

Quality was also important. And the game of finding high quality at low cost (which was called "getting a bargain") was quite as exciting as knowing later who had plenty of cigarettes and soap powder.

Most prewar shoppers didn't know the difference between a No. 2 can and a barrel. But a lot of them knew the difference between two heads of cabbage, and could tell a good piece of meat by looking at it.

The prime factors of price and quality will probably assume their old importance, and you young ladies will have to avoid the temptation of buying everything in sight for fear it won't be there tomorrow.

There will be certain strange new approaches in shopping. For example, the grocer may smile at you and give you his solicitous attention. Don't think he's being flirtatious. His behavior will signal the return of something called competition.

You may hear some older shoppers say such things as "That last steak you gave me wasn't very tender." Don't worry, the man behind the counter won't harm her. He may even say he's sorry. That's the way things used to be.

A lot of other things may seem strange at first, too. But don't let your new-found freedom go to your head. Be a lady and keep your equilibrium.

You'll soon get the hang of peacetime shopping again.

HIGHWAY DIRECTOR IS TO SPEAK HERE

Rotarians To Be Told of Program for State

What Fayette County can reasonably expect in the way of state aid on its highways during the postwar period may be learned by Rotarians and their guests at their next Tuesday's luncheon at the Country Club.

The state highway director, Perry Ford, has promised to speak to the club on that date and a spokesman for his office has indicated that Ford will talk on "Ohio Highway Department's Postwar Plans."

There are many requests for as much state help as possible on this county's highway improvement and construction program, on the agenda of Fayette County officials and the Fayette County Planning Commission and what Director Ford has to say during his visit here may throw some light on highway developments in this locality in the near future.

It has not been announced whether Director Ford will bring any of his departmental officials with him.

COOL! WEATHER SLOWS CANNING OF CORN CROP

Labor Situation Less Critical Now in Comparison with Wartime Seasons

Cool weather seems to be holding up the work of canning sweet corn, according to Harry Hyer, manager of the Ladoga Canning Co. plant here. A total of 1307 acres of corn in this region is under contract but a small run Wednesday afternoon and one load Thursday will be all this week. It is hoped that the plant will begin on full capacity Monday. Indications are that the crop will be good and help will be plentiful.

The Fayette Canning Co. has under contract between 600 and 700 acres of sweet corn, none of which will be processed in the plant here according to D. S. Cochran. The corn is received here and transferred by truck to some plant of the Stokely Foods, Inc., located at West Jefferson, Plain City and Milford Center. No tomatoes will be packed by the Fayette Canning Co. this year, though they will process pumpkins in season.

The difficulty in securing the necessary help during the war years deterred both packers and farmers from venturing very far in the canning business. In great contrast with the necessity last year of calling upon various organizations and patriotically minded citizens for aid in handling the corn pack, the slowing of war plant operations has released more hands to help this year. It is estimated that the Ladoga Co. will employ about 225 when running to full capacity, while during the pumpkin pack the Fayette Co. will require probably 125.

From neighboring towns comes the news that most canning plants are in operation. It is reported that Luther Swaim of the Swaim Canning Co. of Sabina believes the plant will be in full run Monday, a few odd loads of corn having been packed this week.

The Bates Canning Co. of Blanchester, C. E. Bates, Mgr., expects to be in operation Monday while the New Vienna Packing Co. began operations Wednesday, according to a statement made by one of the owners, William Creamer.

FRANK THEOBALD HERMAN GOSNEY

BOY SCIENTIST, JUST OUT OF HIGH SCHOOL, OPERATES COMMERCIAL CHEMICAL PLANT

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch
BROOKLYN, N. Y.—A mere youth of 16, barely out of high school, Edward M. Kosower, of Brooklyn, today is regarded as one of the world's most promising younger scientists. Winner of the annual Science Talent Search conducted by the Science Clubs of America, which carried a $2,400 Westinghouse college prize, Edward has been awarded a four-year scholarship to MIT where he will study synthetic organic chemistry in the hope of discovering a derivative of quinine to be used in the fight against malaria.

Despite his 'teen age Edward has dabbled in chemistry for seven years; in fact, he was an entrepreneur in his own right after he and two buddies had set up and operated their own "chemical company," taking orders from leading firms and then trying to fill them.

At the tender age of nine Edward became convinced of his future profession. He needed ink for homework but didn't want to go to the corner store for it. Instead he posted his mother for a chemical set and finally got it. Then he proceeded to make the ink himself. That started his newly-adopted career as scientist.

"Chemist" at 12
At the age of 12 he went to the library, borrowed an advanced book on chemistry, mastered it, further showing his natural ability. The result was that he decided to enter the Science Talent Search contest and later went on to set himself up in business, along with two pals.

This adventure began in March, 1944. The new firm advertised in a chemical publication and soon orders came in. That stumped the "board of directors" who realized they didn't have the necessary knowledge and experience to make the orders—which were for amino acids.

"Here is what we did," recalls Edward. "I read in a chemical publication about the National Registry of Rare Chemicals in Chicago. It acts as a clearing-house for those who want to obtain for research purposes rare chemicals."

"If you can supply any of the chemicals listed you write to the registry which in turn notifies interested parties who then write directly to you."

"We then decided we could prepare certain compounds with which we were familiar from our studies in school. Luckily for us, there was no charge for the registry service. You see, we were without funds."

It developed that there were firms interested in several of these chemicals. The trio set about filling the orders—even though it took three months. "We even kept the great Electric Research Laboratories waiting months for an order," asserted Edward. "We also sold an obscure dyestuff to Johns Hopkins university and a comparatively unknown organic chemical to the United States Army. We even sold to the Union of South Africa's government."

There was a huge profit involved, too. One order cost Edward 35 cents for ingredients. He billed a firm $59.65. That enabled him to pay back to his mother the $15 she loaned him to start in business.

Soon after Edward "opened shop" he started to learn the intricacies of the game of chemistry. One order he received requested half a ton of a certain chemical. That was fine, he reasoned, and there was a handsome profit, too. Then Edward discovered that it would take exactly SIX years to make the order because with the limited time at his disposal he and his partners could turn out only three pounds a week. That was a bitter blow.

So the "board of directors" met and decided to dissolve. But the experience had not been in vain. For Edward was getting a start in his new field and a few months later all this work stood him in good stead when he took the Science Talent Search examinations.

Young Kosower disclaims that there is such a thing as "natural" inclination to delve into chemistry, for as far as he knows none of his forebears were scientists or even remotely interested in science.

Here's a youth who should be heard from. For he has the imagination, ability and desire to advance himself in a field which may be hard work to many but exciting and fascinating to him.

SEPARATION REPORT TO BE ISSUED AGAIN

vived all over Ohio. Approximately 50,000 employees in the state are affected. The revival, presumably, was due to the sudden termination of war contracts and accompanying release of war workers.

No separation reports were issued by the API when it was closed last week because, it was explained, no blanks were available at the time. The USES office now has a supply of the blanks and it was indicated they probably would be mailed to the separated employees.

The separation report bears the worker's name, social security number, date of last day worked, earnings for last calendar week worked and the reason for the separation (layoff or discharge). The report also carried the name and address of the employer and the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation number.

In connection with the application for unemployment compensation, none may be claimed unless the employee has found it impossible to be placed by the USES.

WILL X-RAY HERE FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Tests Will Be Made in City And County Schools

X-ray examinations to determine if Fayette county and city school-age youngsters have tuberculosis will begin around the first of November, was planned today after the county's tuberculosis committee met Wednesday night at the newly-redecorated and furnished rooms under the Kroger store.

This X-raying of school children is the first step being taken by the committee to insure the health of the community's children from the disease. Free of charge, the work will first be done in the schools, and later on the committee plans to go into the factories of the city to determine who has, and who has not, T. B.

A health program for the schools which will begin after school convenes in September was another project discussed and undertaken by the committee last night. Details were lacking in regard to this but it is expected to include health study along all lines.

The new meeting place of the committee, rented from Wert Shoop was divided into two rooms. A consultation room and a waiting room.

W. J. Hilly presided over last night's meeting.

Doubleheader and Two Singles In Tri-County League On Sunday

One doubleheader, with Sabina at Greenfield, and a pair of excitement-packed single games in which the Jeffersonvillians meet the Eagles at Washington C. H. and the Good Hoppers playing at Milledgeville, are on the baseball menu for the fans around the Tri-County League circuit for next Sunday.

A triple battle is currently underway among the six league teams. The Eagles and Sabina are still fighting it out for the top spot, now held by the Eagles by a slender margin while Greenfield and Jeffersonville are staging a tug of war for third place. Milledgeville and Good Hope, jostling each other around trying to keep out of the cellar, should come somewhere near settling their differences when they tangle Sunday.

The boys at Jeffersonville and Greenfield will take the roles of giant killer. If Jeffersonville is successful and Greenfield falls in the Sunday scraps, the championship parade will take on a decidedly different aspect—one that would darken the outlook for the Eagles and raise the hopes of the Sabina.

The keen competition and class of baseball that has been developed since the start of the season has convinced Bob Bailey, the league secretary, that "the Tri-County League may be just an infant so far as baseball is concerned, but it certainly deserves a prominent place in the sports picture." He went on to point out that the loop overcame many problems—not to say difficulties—and maintained its schedule right through the season.

Reds Lose Sixth to Pirates As Harrist in First Start

By JACK HAND
(By The Associated Press)
Bobby Feller returns to the baseball was tonight after a four-year hitch in Uncle Sam's Navy and the odds are all in favor of his picking up where he left off in 1941.

Rapid Robert may not be as razor sharp against the league-leading Detroit Tigers under the Cleveland Arcs as he was when he won 25 for the Tribe in his last full season, but he has been managing and throwing for a top flight Great Lakes Navy team this season.

Jim Tobin assured Feller of a first place target to shoot at when he hurled the Bengals to a 4-3 verdict over Philadelphia yesterday, upping their margin over idle Washington to one full game.

Although the A's banged Tobin's

"nothin' ball" for eight hits including two doubles, 10 blows off Don Black enabled Detroit to close a 21-game home stand with its 14th decision over the eastern invaders.

Washington opens a vital four-game set in the Yankee stadium today while the Tigers joust with the Indians. All other clubs in the American League were idle yesterday.

Brooklyn staved off New York's threat to the Dodgers' third place berth on a four-hit, 4-1 night game triumph by rookie Ralph Branca. Despite threatening weather, the final after dark contest at the Polo Grounds drew 34,415 paid.

Sal Maglie, who had won his first two starts since coming up from the Jersey City farm, was banged out early as the Brooks stretched their third place margin over the Giants to a game and a half.

Pittsburgh handed Cincinnati its sixth straight setback and its 19th in the last 21 starts, with Walter Beck scattering nine safeties for a 6-2 edge. Earl Harris, making his first start since his return to the Reds, was charged with the defeat, cemented by Bill Salkeld's three-run homer in the fifth.

All other National League teams were unscheduled.

Bob Feller Day Celebrated in Big Way at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24—(AP)—This is Bob Feller day in Cleveland.

The Indians' pitching, star strikeout king of the major leagues, takes the mound for the Tribe tonight for the first time since Sept. 26, 1941, when he humbled the St. Louis Browns with one hit.

Feller day festivities will start at noon with an elaborate luncheon. He will receive a jeep for use on his Iowa farm. Among the luncheon guests will be Governor Frank J. Lausche and Mayor Thomas A. Burke.

Feller will oppose Detroit's Hal Newhouser, who supplanted him as baseball's winningest pitcher when he left for the navy.

Chapman To Continue As Manager of Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24—(AP)—Ben Chapman's success bandwagon keeps right on a-rolling.

Chapman, who asks only that his ball players "put out" their all, was signed yesterday to pilot the Phils in 1946. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Chapman was named in a surprise move June 30 after Fred Fitzsimmons resigned.

And since then his Phils have played what is perhaps their finest baseball in many years.

American Fliers Expected To Turn To Auto Racing

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 24—(AP)—Mauri Rose, who won the last 500 mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway in 1941, predicted today that the boys who helped drive the Axis planes from the skies will put new pep into automobile racing.

Looking ahead to next May 30, when the 500-mile race is to be resumed at Indianapolis, Rose says:

"I can picture a field headlined by young heroes who got their starting running the tails off 'Zekes and Bettys.' They'll be tough, maybe too tough for us old-timers, but for interest and crowds—say, you haven't seen anything yet."

"They could be a shade on the reckless side," he said. "They'll have to take their reasoning, like the rest of us. But the same appetite for speed and thrills that put them in the air services will draw a lot of them into the racing game."

Pot O' Luck Favorite For American Derby

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—(AP)—Chicagoan Warren Wright's Pot O' Luck, will be back at his favorite route—a mile and a quarter—in tomorrow's $85,000 American Derby at Washington Park. The race stacks up as one of the nation's foremost tests for three-year olds.

The Arlington Classic winner will have lots of competition in Air Sailor, War Jeep, Sea Swallow, Fighting Step and Icangetit.

Denny Is 7 Under Par In Portsmouth Tourney

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 24—(AP)—Veteran Denny Shute of Akron chalked up another win by carding a seven under par 137 in the Portsmouth Open golf tournament yesterday.

Shute had a 70 on the first 18 holes and chopped five off par on the second round despite a driving rainstorm.

BREWERS TOP AA AGAIN

By The Associated Press
The landing of owner Bill Veeck, discharged Marine Corps veteran, in Milwaukee this week seems to have inspired the Brewers to secure a beachhead at the top of the American Association.

After more than a month spent in pursuing the Indianapolis Indians, Milwaukee dug an undisputed foothold on the least last night by checking last place Columbus, 3-2, while Indianapolis was losing, 4-1, in St. Paul.

With Julio Acosta scattering 11 hits over the full nine innings, the defending champions moved back to familiar ground one game ahead of the Indians. Only the day before the Brewers had climbed into a tie for first as Indianapolis was losing twice to St. Paul.

Indianapolis' downfall seemed a matter of course, coming as it did in St. Paul. In their last nine games in Lexington Park, the Indians have not won so much as one contest and last night's defeat was the fourth straight of the present series.

In Kansas City, a seventh inning double by Johnny Ostrowski followed by John Kreevich's single brought the winning run of a 2-1 win for the Blues over Toledo. Al Lamacchia, who started for Toledo, was chased from the park in the fifth inning, and the clinching tally scored off Elwood Knierim.

Relief pitcher Harry Kimberlin of Louisville also gave up a 12th inning home run to Hank Nowak that gave Minneapolis a 6-4 win.

Rex Cecil, who allowed only six hits until removed in the 12th, was charged with the loss since he was responsible for two runners who scored ahead of Nowak.

The order was prepared in the office of reconversion director John W. Snyder.

One of Snyder's top lieutenants, talking with a reporter, noted the president's executive order of Aug. 18—mobilizing federal agencies behind reconversion—referred to "this final stage of the war emergency."

This aide, said the threatened paralysis of the railroad would have interfered with essential war purposes—hauling troops and hauling freight to troops—and also with an orderly transition to a peacetime economy.

The president's war powers remain. Mr. Truman said at his news conference yesterday it will be a long time before hostilities are declared officially ended.

This was important for several reasons. For example, taxes on liquor, jewelry, furs, phone calls, amusements, and many other things are due to be cut automatically six months after hostilities end legally.

The government now holds about 25 plants which it seized from private owners in wartime. These include Montgomery Ward properties in seven cities; the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad; and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company at Akron.

The order now being drafted in the White House is understood to provide a method by which the properties can be restored to their original owners. There is no assurance, however, all of them will be returned at once.

Other Developments
Also popping in the reconversion drive were these developments:

Veterans—The president told them they can be sure the provision in the selective service act that gives them their old jobs back will stay in force, even after the rest of the law dies. He said he'll ask congress for legislation to extend that provision, if necessary.

Small business—The OPA did a couple of things to help it. One was to allow new small businesses—in order to save time—to set their own price ceilings in line with similar products made by other companies. The other was to allow firms to raise prices when they are losing money. In general, however, the distributors—not the buyers—will have to absorb these increases.

Aid for civilians—The army cancelled all its contracts for soluble coffee (the kind you just

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—AP—Grain futures rallied strongly today after an early setback, influenced by firm New York cotton and stocks, and a statement by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson that the government would continue to support prices.

Wheat was off early on apparent lack of government buying, and reduced government prices in Minneapolis and the east, but commission houses bought on the decline and short-covering developed.

Wheat closed 1/2 to 1 cent a bushel higher than the previous finish. September $1.64 1/2, corn was up 1/2 to 1 cent. December $1.15 1/2, oats were 1/2 to 1 1/2 cent higher. stir into a cup of hot water). It also cancelled contracts for 80,000,000 pounds of dehydrated foods, 600,000 pounds of canned cheese, and 13 million packages of cigarette tobacco.

Farmers—Secretary Anderson asked them to carry through their 1945 production schedules because their products all will be needed.

Farm future—Next year may be different. Some believe Anderson may find it necessary to ask farmers to cut down on some crops in 1946. A problem of surpluses, instead of shortages, will arise.

Everhart is the second man in Ross County history to receive the medal. The other was awarded to a Civil War veteran, also from Bainbridge.

fold. It either must find markets for this expanded output or put the brakes on production. The alternative likely would be another agricultural depression marked by unmarketable surpluses, low farm prices and income, with resulting repercussions on industrial production and employment.

With military demands for food expected to be cut in half during the next 12 months, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who 10 days ago was tackling the problem of shortages, now faces the prospects of surpluses in some items before the year is out.

Unless industry masters its reconversion problem quickly to attain a high level of peace-time employment, Anderson may find it

Winston Churchill was a professional soldier in the British army and fought with the Bengal Lancers in India.

A 90-per-cent-parity price level nevertheless would scale down farm income because farm prices now average about 119 per cent of parity.

Some farm leaders expect the domestic demand for food, which rose to record levels during the war, to decline considerably as automobiles, radios, etc., become available in large numbers. They say food demand went up during the war largely because other goods were not available.

Agriculture has some protection against an undue break in prices. The government is committed to support prices of most commodities at not less than 90 per cent of parity for two years after the war. Parity prices are officially defined as those equally fair to producers and consumers.

Some farm leaders expect the domestic demand for food, which rose to record levels during the war, to decline considerably as automobiles, radios, etc., become available in large numbers. They say food demand went up during the war largely because other goods were not available.

Agriculture has some protection against an undue break in prices. The government is committed to support prices of most commodities at not less than 90 per cent of parity for two years after the war. Parity prices are officially defined as those equally fair to producers and consumers.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—AP—The stock market's recovery move faltered today as this week's upswing in spirited light selling in virtually all departments.

While scattered rails and industrials managed to progress moderately from the start, a number of leaders backed into slightly losing territory. Dealings slowed at the direction clouded. Mild irregularity prevailed near the fourth hour.

Some trimming of commitments was attributed to the approach of another lengthy holiday.

necessary to call upon farmers to cut down on some crops next year. Governmental predictions of an unemployment roll of 8,000,000 by spring cannot help having an adverse effect upon the total demand for food and other farm products.

Agriculture's immediate reconversion problem will be influenced greatly by two factors: 1. The extent of food shipments to Europe next fall and winter and 2. the effect availability of non-food goods will have on consumer food buying habits.

Anderson expressed confidence in a radio address last night other means will be found for financing food exports to Europe now that lend-lease has ended.

Another factor in connection with shipments abroad, however, is that the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration lacks sufficient funds thus far to buy vast quantities of food.
